

Clonwilliam House, along with being one of the best Wicklow wedding venues, is also ideally suited as a location for filming and photography. Among its advantages as a film location are the following:

- The main house boasts a series of very large, open, airy rooms with abundant period detailing, great natural light and unfettered views across the valley, and includes a 30ft high collonnaded entrance hall and a contemporary-styled swimming pool and spa.

- Also available for filming are a number of other interesting and pretty buildings including a second Georgian-style manor house, cottages, farmhouses, outbuildings, sheds, and the ruins of a beautiful old stone watermill.

- Clonwilliam House is located on a height a couple of kilometres from the nearest public road in the middle of hundreds of acres of farmland, forestry and extensive maintained grounds which include many pretty features, all of which are also available for filming. The house is completely secluded from public view and provides an absolutely silent backdrop.

- There is limitless space for parking around the house and grounds, and the house is serviced by 3-phase electricity and wifi.

- There are incredible views across the valley with no interruption or evidence of buildings or electrical poles and therefore is appropriate for filming set in any historical era.

- Clonwilliam is conveniently located in picturesque countryside an hour from Dublin, 1 mile from Woodenbridge, 3 miles from Avoca and 6 miles from Arklow.
